For unforeseen reasons, the Center for U.S. Policy has postponed indefinitely the “Top 5 Emerging Practices To Prevent Substance Misuse” contest. We sincerely apologize for the inconvenience our actions may have caused to potential contest entrants, collaborating organizations, and news reporters and outlets.

We remain committed to advancing innovative, sustainable strategies to prevent opioid and other substance misuse.

As always, we would be pleased to work with any organization dedicated to substance misuse prevention, interventions, harm reduction, treatment, and recovery support, including those that would like to improve awareness of their own innovative approaches.
